“This program allowed us to take our conservation efforts to a larger scale. We have been working on different conservation practices for several years. This opportunity helped us expand those efforts and try things on different fields we hadn’t done in the past.”

- Nick Hermanson, participating farmer

Financial Incentives

for Soil and Water Stewardship

The Soil and Water Outcomes Fund® provides financial incentives directly to farmers who implement new conservation practices that yield environmental outcomes like carbon sequestration and water quality improvement. Participating farmers typically implement practices including no-till/reduced tillage, cover crops, and extended crop rotations. Already implementing these practices? No problem, you can still enroll with additional practices or acreage.

Small changes can make a big difference. Diversify your revenue stream and enhance your operation’s financial resiliency through improved soil health with the Soil and Water Outcomes Fund.
